Come with curiosity. This free template from A New Kind Of Free (ANKOF) is an open-source invitation to explore, learn, and take on this work in your own way. Stay curious as you go, and verify information for yourself so you feel good about what you define as facts. Sara Kruzan does not have a law degree and is not an attorney. This is volunteer, educational information only, not legal advice, and anything shared using this template is not protected by attorney-client privilege or any other legal protection.

Individual Consent Form

Child Victim First Principle Approach Case Summary (public template)

What this is. The person named below as the preparer wants to write a short summary about your case. It is for learning and advocacy. It shows how children who were hurt can end up charged with crimes. It is your choice to take part. Take your time. You can ask someone you trust to help you read this.

Preparer name / organization

Preparer contact (mail address or email)

Who sees it. Only the people you choose below. Nothing about you is shared until you say yes in writing.

Your choices. Check every box that is true for you. If you check "Share nothing," leave the other sharing boxes empty.

- [ ] Share with the preparer only.
- [ ] Share with this organization or person:

Name of organization or person (optional)

- [ ] Share with an attorney I choose or approve.
- [ ] Share nothing. Please do not write a summary about me.
- [ ] I want to read the summary before anyone else sees it.

Your rights. You can say no. You can change your mind at any time. Saying no or changing your mind will not get you in trouble. There is no penalty. You can ask for changes to anything written about you.

What we cannot promise. This is not legal help. The preparer may not be a lawyer, counselor, or doctor. No one can promise release, a new hearing, a shorter sentence, or a lawyer. What you share is not protected by attorney-client privilege.

Keeping it private. Your information should be kept locked and private. It is not posted in public unless you give separate written permission.

How to change your mind or stop. Send a short note to the preparer that says "I withdraw my consent" (or what you want changed), with your name and ID number.

By signing, I say that I read this form (or someone read it to me), I understand it, and the choices I checked are mine.

Printed name

Signature

Date

ID number

Facility

Keep a copy for yourself if you can. Give or mail the signed form to the preparer. If you are sending a copy to ANKOF, email it to ankof@anewkindoffree.net.

This document may be drafted and assisted with AI/SI tools and verification.